REPUBLICANS LEAD AGAIN

Third Ward Is Only One Where Democrats Turn Out Strong; Less Than Half a Dozen Registering Express No Preference as to Parties

I've hundred eighty six persons referred in Cornellville yesterday to the September primary and then I referred in November in In-glen, the total for the two years a considerable one. So I can compare with both for the two days in 1918 or for the year of '22 or either. The total for the year for the three days in 1918 was 1707 which is 1373 over

LIEUT. GLASSBURN HOME

Plans to Practice Law.

The following persons were with the first Division Ambulance Team in Germany and are now in Rome on their leave of absence from duty with the American Expeditionary Force:

First Lieutenant Mrs. J. C. Hayes of First Avenue Councilville and daughter.

Lieutenant Glasburn was preparing to begin the practice of law at the time he entered the service. He is now planning to take up his bookshelves and will probably locate in Erie town after being limited to practice. Lieutenant Glasburn had established his office at Attorney A. L. Jones' in downtown

THIS WOMAN FOUND HEALTH

And Escaped an Operation by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Hazelhurst, Ga. "I have used your remedies for only ten months and they have saved me from an operation. Before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was so ill from a female trouble that I was found to stay in bed for a week at a time with weakness and pain but your medicine has done so much for me that I am recommending it to all suffering women. It certainly is a great medicine and is a sure road to health for women. You may publish this letter if you like."—Mrs. W. C. Little, R. F. D. 4, Hazelhurst, Ga.

Women who suffer from headache, nervousness, backache, the blues and other symptoms of a functional derangement should give this famous root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial.

For forty years it has been overcoming such ailments of women after other medicines have failed.

If you want special suggestions in regard to your condition, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of long experience is at your service and your letter will be held in strict confidence.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and A FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Children Cry For

Fletcher's CASTORIA

Mother and Doctor.

Baby's not well. Looks well but cries, and now what's the matter? Pains? No. Tight band? No. Seem to enjoy its breakfast this morning? Yes. What did the meal consist of? A cup of hot milk and I guess I gave her some of the rolls and bacon I had. Don't guess. If that was her breakfast send out for a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria, and after you give her a dose read carefully what a baby of her age should have for breakfast—you'll find it in the booklet around the bottle.

Too many young mothers are like this mother. Caution. That's the word that should be hung in every home. Caution, Mothers, must be burned, burned deep in your mind if our little ones are to remain well.

At the first irregularity at the first flush of fever give Fletcher's Castoria, then call in your physician—he will commend you. You will have done much to help him.

WIFE HELPED BY PLANT JUICE AFTER SHE GAVE UP HOPE

Sensational Testimonial Given by Pittsburg Man for the New Medicine.

One of the most recent statements made praising Plant Juice is that of Mr. B. J. Kaufman, who resides at No. 2215 East street, North St. Louis, Pittsburg, a popular machanic in the employ of a large local concern. He tells how his wife was relieved of a severe case of stomach trouble after she had practically given up all hope stating: "For years my wife has been troubled with her stomach; she could not digest the lightest kind of food and it would ferment and she was bloated with gas and in constant pain. She had no appetite, could not sleep at night and got so run down we did not know what to do for her, as she had tried so many medicines without any benefit whatever. Through the advice of a friend she started to take Plant Juice and it has put her stomach in fine condition. She is able to sleep at night, has a good appetite and enjoys her meals. She has no more gas in her system. We certainly feel it a duty to endorse Plant Juice."

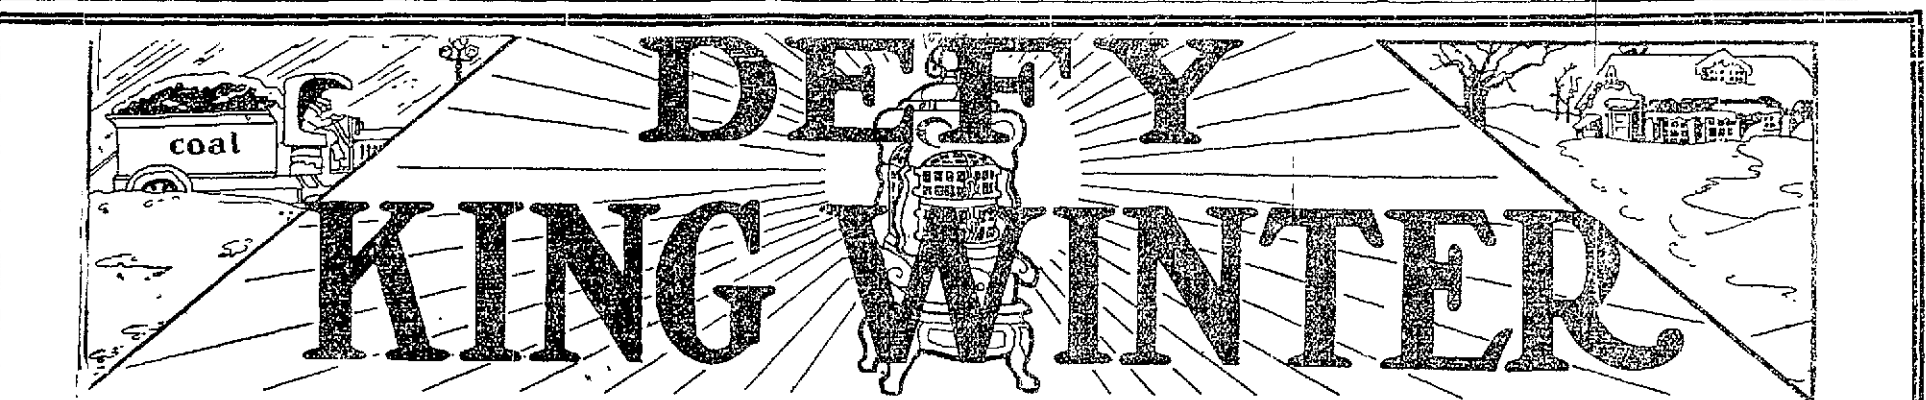

There are numerous symptoms of this trouble that Plant Juice can relieve. In fact any one of the following may denote afflictions of the stomach: Indigestion, dyspepsia, bad breath, sick, throbbing headache, constipation, that tired feeling, night sweats, poor circulation, eos veins, a coated tongue or a poor complexion. Plant Juice is sold at Connelville, at Roy Hetzel's Drug Store—Adv.

The GARLAND Makes Cooking and Baking a Real Pleasure!

The Famous GARLAND Three-Fuel Range is the best operating Combination Range you can buy—it's the Range that's giving complete satisfaction everywhere. And here are some of the reasons why you too should choose the GARLAND—

- Burns coal, wood or gas—singly or all together—with perfect results.
- Keeps your Kitchen cool in Summer and warm in Winter.
- Bakes the same with coal as gas. Simply pull out the lever when you bake with gas. Simply push back the lever when you bake with coal.
- The only combination range on the market in which you can bake on the oven bottom without the use of a false bottom.
- All cast-iron—extra heavy construction in every detail. Every part guaranteed for long life.
- Famous GARLAND quality—assuring a lifetime of service and satisfaction.
- Every GARLAND Range is backed up by the GARLAND Policy of Assurance and by Aaron's "Satisfaction guarantee"—doubly insuring your complete satisfaction.

And the GARLAND Three-Fuel Range—with all of its superior advantages—costs no more than the ordinary kinds.

NEW PROCESS Gas Ranges

The NEW PROCESS is the highest grade Gas Range made—yet it's cost is very moderate indeed.

It's the one Gas Range that operates most satisfactorily under all conditions of gas pressure.

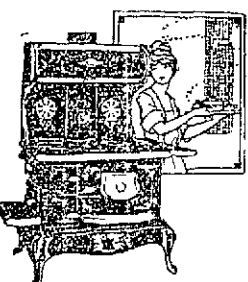

Has two-piece burners which are very easy to clean.

The scientific arrangement of the burners saves practically 25% of your fuel bill.

Each Range is equipped with patented lighter.

As a baker—the NEW PROCESS is in a class by itself—captured Grand Prize at the San Francisco Exposition.

KEELEY Coal Ranges

"The Old Reliable"

For nearly 50 years KEELEY Coal Ranges have been giving an uninterrupted satisfactory service.

They are wonderful bakers—scientifically constructed to give the best results under all conditions. Very moderately priced.

UNIVERSAL COMBINATION RANGE

ALL WHO HAVE BAD NERVES AND ARE RUN-DOWN SHOULD TAKE THIS WOMAN'S ADVICE

"I surely sympathize with those who suffer from nerves and a run-down system. I know from experience just what it means and because of what I suffered I believe that I owe it to others to tell how, at last, I found such great relief."

"I was recommended to take Chasco-Vin, an old time nerve and body-building tonic and it afforded me relief almost from the first dose, but I kept it up—taking it regularly. I am now on the third bottle and I surely feel my old self again."

"In my opinion those who suffer with bad nerves and those who are run-down generally should lose no time in obtaining this wonderful tonic."

The Connelville agencies for the sale of Chasco-Vin are C. Roy Hetzel, Woolworth Building, and A. A. Clarke, 323 N. Pittsburg Street.—Adv.

MEYERSDALE, Sept. 3.—Announcement of the marriage of Miss Mary Alice Leckey of this place and Sylvester Stauffer of Akron, O., has been made, the ceremony being performed in Connelville on Monday, September 3, the Rev. Mr. Nace of the Reformed church reading the service at 2:30 in the afternoon. Miss Leckey is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Leckey and was very popular. She graduated from the Meyersdale high school last year and since that time assisted her father at his news stand. Mr. Stauffer is a former Meyersdale boy but has been located in Akron for the past few years where he holds a good position, and has his home in readiness for his bride. They left Connelville Tuesday for Akron. Their many friends in Meyersdale wish them a long and happy life.

Mrs. Clayton Wade and daughter Peggy of Fairmont, W. Va., came up Monday to visit the former's mother, Mrs. B. B. Collins and left Tuesday for Philadelphia to be present at the marriage of her brother, Paulson Collins to Miss Margaret Richards which will take place there today.

Mrs. Elmer Stahl returned to her home in Connelville Tuesday after a few days' visit here with relatives.

Miss Marie Stilling of Clarksville, W. Va., is visiting her brother, Jack Stilling.

Mrs. Edgar Hey of Berlin spent yesterday here visiting friends.

Miss Anna Johnson has gone to Pittsburg for a few weeks' visit with relatives.

Frank Wade of Cumberland spent Monday here with friends.

Mrs. Frederick Grot and son William are spending the week with relatives in Confluence.

Mrs. Anthony Mink and daughter

Edith have returned to their home in Cumberland after a week's visit here with relatives.

Miss Kathryn Katina is back from a week's visit with relatives in Latrobe.

Mrs. Emma Gardner of Pittsburgh spent from Saturday until Monday here at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Gress.

Misses Sara Blancher and Mae Meyers, who spent several weeks here visiting relatives and friends left Monday for their homes in Akron, O.

MOUNT PLEASANT SCHOOLS IN FINE SHAPE THIS TERM

Offer Best Possible Advantages to the 1,200 or More Pupils.

SOME GRADES ARE CONGESTED

Directors Take Steps to Solve Overcrowding Problem; Rehearsal for the Hamel-Durstine Wedding Is Followed by Supper for the Party.

Special to The Courier.
MT. PLEASANT, Sept. 2.—At a meeting of the school board on Monday evening, the monthly bills were paid and Mrs. Presley Hurst was elected substitute teacher.

The Mount Pleasant borough schools are in shape to offer the best training possible to 1,200 children enrolled. The first ward building is in excellent condition. Teachers and pupils throughout the entire school system attacked the work in a business like way. There is no question but the results will exceed those of former years.

The Freshman class in high school numbers 22, the largest enrollment in the past two years.

Grades two, three and six and seven are over crowded. A few additional teachers are necessary. The board of directors is making an investigation to discover a method to relieve this congestion.

The teachers are planning to open a lunch room in connection with the domestic science room. This would help to solve in part the high cost of living for teachers.

Wedding Rehearsal.
A rehearsal for the wedding of Mrs. Elizabeth Hamel of this place and Sherman Durstine of Greensburg was held in the Lutheran church last evening, followed by a supper for the members of the party. The wedding will take place at eight o'clock this evening in the Lutheran church.

To Open Dollar Store.
Ralph Coarn, a sergeant recently discharged from the Aviation corps, has taken over the Kobacker block of Harry and Isadore Kobacker and with Mr. Smith of Donora, will open about September 26, a store to be known as the "S. and C. one dollar store." They expect to sell men's, women's and children's furnishings and to carry nothing in stock that costs more than one dollar.

Entertain Society.
Mrs. Frank Duggan entertained the ladies of the Missionary society of the church of God at her home on P. street, Road avenue last evening.

Notes.
Leonard Wilson, recently discharged from Camp Dix, was arrived here yesterday and is now at home.

FARMER'S SICKLY LITTLE GIRL IS MUCH IMPROVED

The Father Tells How Two Bottles of Nerv-Worth Made Her Over.

A standing Nerv-Worth claim is this—that Nerv-Worth "blesses" equally the weak and ailing child, the worn-out veteran, and the men and women of all ages. Below is clear proof of the first part of this proposition. It comes from a highly esteemed farmer who lives on Route 3, Piqua, Ohio:

Nerv-Worth Company—My little daughter (she is nine years old) has been troubled with stomach and bowels trouble for the past three years and as we had tried a number of remedies without finding one that would help her we had about given up hope of finding any relief for her when we heard of Nerv-Worth. She has taken two bottles and has been getting better and better since the first day she started to take Nerv-Worth. She has gained three pounds in weight, is more cheerful and we have hopes of her recovery.

Your dollar back at the Connelville Drug Company if Nerv-Worth does not benefit you. The Broadway Drug Company sells Nerv-Worth in Scottsdale.—Adv.

HIGHWAY SYSTEM PLAN IS APPROVED

BILL INTRODUCED BY SENATOR
TOWNSEND INDORSED BY PER-SONS IN ALL SECTIONS.

IT WOULD AID LOCAL ROADS

Scheme is for the Construction and Maintenance by the Government of Trunk Lines Intersecting Each State
and All Connected.

Washington.—The movement to construct a national system of trunk line highways, intersecting each state, the cost of construction and maintenance to be borne by the federal government, is gaining throughout the country, according to reports coming in to the federal highway council.

Many letters are coming in from practically all sections endorsing the movement and calling for explicit information as to the main points in the national highway measure, now reading in the senate.

The national highway bill, introduced by Senator Townsend, chairman of the senate committee on post offices and post roads, is an entirely new piece of legislation. Its object is to build in each state trunk line highways to the extent of not less than 2 per cent nor more than 5 per cent of the total mileage of the state, and to join them with the main trunk lines of other states, thus creating a national system connecting the entire country.

Think It Would Help State Roads.

The decided trend in public opinion in favor of federal construction of a national highway system is due, according to those having the measure in charge, to the fact that such mileage as each state will receive will put the state that much nearer to a complete and well connected state system, at the same time insuring logical connections with adjoining states.

It is admitted that such connections
are necessary to a properly co-ordinated system and that such co-ordination is logically a federal function.

The net result to each state, it now begins to appear, will be a strengthening of forces behind road development.
The states on the one hand are to be aided by relieving them permanently of the construction and maintenance of the heaviest traveled interstate routes, thus permitting the concentration of state effort on routes having their terminal points within the state.
In other words, more effective co-operation of federal and state power is to be gained by each having its specific work laid out, one applying its efforts to national connections and the other to the development of local or intrastate roads and their proper connections.

Supporters of the national highway movement are increasing their activities, in the expressed belief that in the pending measure they are working for a plan whereby a comprehensive system of national highways may be constructed and put into permanent operation within the next few years, and at less cost to the public than under any other plan.

Washington Has Air Bus.

Washington now has an air "rubber-neck" service.

Four men, all experienced in the operation of planes, have inaugurated
in the national capital its first airplane sightseeing tours. The public will be able to look at the city from the clouds and, in addition, get a thrill or two, if it so desires.

The new service for the strong-hearted had its inception with men who are either in the aerial mail service or ex-service men. Men behind the "seeing-Washington-from-the-sky" project are W. W. Major, manager of the postal aviation field at College Park, Md.; Leon D. Smith, who was in the airplane mail service at New York until he refused to make a flight in a plane equipped with a Liberty motor during bad weather; Neal Angle, expert rider at the College Park field, and D. S. Collier of the office force of the superintendent of aviation in the mail service.

The airplane will be parked at the grounds of the old Jackson City race track, just over the highway bridge leading to Virginia. From that point the public will be given an opportunity to take a trip across the Potomac and over Washington at an altitude of 2-500 feet. For good measure the pilot will throw in a "stunt" or two, if the patrons should desire.

The management announces that the average ride will be for 16 miles, a distance great enough to give the passenger a good view of Washington. In addition to sight-seeing the public also will be given a chance to obtain a ride to Baltimore, Atlantic City or any other place within reasonable distance.

How You May Reduce Your Weight

Overstoutness is a very unwelcome condition, especially in the present day,
when slender figures are so popular,
and every reader of this paper who has noticed a tendency to put on weight will be glad to know of a new, simple home treatment that is remarkably efficient and inexpensive.

If you happen to be one of those whose weight is more than it should be, don't try to reduce by starving yourself, eat all you want, but take after each meal, and at bed time five grains of Phynox which you can secure at any drug store.

Phynox is designed to increase the oxygen carrying power of the blood and dissolve fatty tissue. In many cases at the rate of a pound a day. It is pleasant to take and gives remarkable results quickly and easily. C. Roy Fitzell, Leukemia Drug Co., A. A.

CONCERT BY MISS TIFFANY WILL BRING OUT A LARGE CROWD

Opera Singer's Appearance In High School Thursday Night Anticipated
With Interest.

The concert by Miss Marie Tiffany of the Metropolitan Opera company in the high school auditorium on Thursday night is awaited with interest by her admirers here.

Miss Tiffany has a voice of rarest quality and unusually fine timbre, a true "lyrical voice." It is not small in volume, however, as her engagement to sing in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York will testify.

Marie Tiffany, before her appearance at the Metropolitan made a name for herself in California singing with the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra. Before the war she sang in Paris in the American church. The first thing Americans do in a foreign country is to go to the American church, if there is one. For it is one place that seems like home under all circumstances. So the engagement of a real American singer like Miss Tiffany, is a very happy one for all concerned. Miss Tiffany also made appearances in concerts at Champaign, and at the Salle du Foyer, with the Compagnie Internationale Lyrique.

Miss Tiffany made a most unprecedented entrance into the Metropolitan Opera company. In 1916 she was visiting in New York. Of course, it is the dream of every singer's life to be a member of the Metropolitan company. So Miss Tiffany made an informal audition for Mr. Gatti-Casazza, manager of the Metropolitan and he was so delighted that he engaged her on the spot.

In her concerts Miss Tiffany includes a very great variety of songs,
from the classic to the ultra-modern.
She also specializes on Scandinavian songs sung in the original Norwegian.

Big Lot of Hay Fever Jokes

But Kentucky Man Says—"People Who Belong to Hay Fever Colony are Kidding Themselves."

Wouldn't Be Any Rose or Hay Fever if Simple Home Remedy Was Given a Chance.

"Yes, there's a real NINETY-NINE per cent effective remedy for hay or rose fever," frankly states a druggist
in a prosperous Kentucky city.

"But I don't expect anyone to believe me, because the treatment is so easy and the cost not worth mentioning."

"The annual crop of hay-fever jokes
would be mighty scarce if people would get an ounce of Mentholized Aerine and by just adding water that has been boiled make a pint of liquid that will prove a real help to all who suffer."

"Many of my hay-fever friends tell me that by starting to gargle and snuff or spray the nostrils a few times
a day the expected severe attack often fails to appear and in cases where it does show up is very mild and does not annoy."

"The Better Class of Pharmacists" who dispense Mentholized Aerine say it will greatly modify any attack even when taken three or four days after hostilities begin.

Go to a real live druggist when you get ready to make a pint.

7 A DAY FOR 7 DAYS

If Your Nerves Are Shaky Because of Over-Indulgence in Tobacco or Alcohol or by Excess of Any Kind,
Bio-Feren is What You Need
Right Away.

Don't grow old before your time,
don't let nervousness wreck your happiness or chances in life. The man with strong, steady nerves is full of vigor, energy, ambition and confidence.
You can have nerves of steel, firm step, new courage and keep gained by putting your blood and nerves in first-class shape with mighty Bio-Feren, a new discovery, inexpensive and efficient.

Men and women who get up so tired
in the morning that they have to drag themselves to their daily labor will in just a few days arise with clear mind,
definite purpose and loads of ambition.
All you have to do is to take two Bio-Feren tablets after each meal and one at bedtime—7 a day for 7 days—
then reduce to one after each meal
until all are gone.

Then if your energy and endurance haven't doubled, if your mind isn't keener and eyes brighter, if you don't feel twice as ambitious as before, any druggist anywhere will return the purchase price—gladly and freely.

Bio-Feren is without doubt the greatest remedy for nervous, rundown, weak, anemic men and women ever offered and is not at all expensive. All druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.

The Devil's Own

A Romance of the Black Hawk War

By Randall Parrish

Author of "Contraband," "Shea of the Irish Brigade," "When Wilderness was King," etc.

Illustrated by Edwin Meyer

"Well, after a while, sah, thar wa'n't no mor' noise, an' I reckoned I'd either done hit yer er else y'd run away. An' thar ye was, sah, a-lyin' on yer back like y'd was dead. Just so soon as I saw y'd know'd as how ye never was no pigger-hunter but a stranger in dese here parts. So I dragged ye inside de cabin, an' washed up yer hurts. But ye never got no better, so I got skeered, an' went hooftin' it down fer de doctor at Beaucaire Landing, sah, an' when he cum back along wid me he dug the bullet outter yer shoulder, an' left some truck fer me ter giv' yer. He's done been yere three times, sah."

"From Beaucaire Landing—is that a town?"

"A sorter town, sah; 'bout four miles down ribber."

The mentioning of this familiar word brought back instantly to my darkened understanding all those main events leading up to my presence in this neighborhood. Complete memory returned, every separate incident sweeping through my brain—Kirby, Carver, the fateful game of cards in the cabin of the Warrior, the sudden death of the judge, the mob anger I sought to curb, the struggle on deck, my being thrown overboard, and the danger threatening the two innocent daughters of Beaucaire. And I had actually been lying in this negro hut, burning up with fever, helplessly delirious, for ten days. What had already occurred in that space of time? What villainy had been concocted and carried out?

"Now see here, Pete," I began earnestly. "How did you learn what my name was?"

"De doctah he fo'm dat out, sah. He done looked thar yer porkers, sah, an' he took two papers whut he foun' dar away wid him. He done tol' me as how yer was an offerer in de army—a lieutenant or sumthin'—an' thut dem papers ought fer ter be s'nt ter de gov'nar at on't. De las' time he was yere he tol' me thut he w'd down ter St. Louis hisself, an' done gif bof dem papers ter Gov'nor Clark. So yer don't need worry none 'bout dem no mor'."

I sank back onto the hard pillow, greatly relieved by his information. The burden of official duty had been taken from me. I was now on my own and free to act as I pleased.

"Have you picked up any news lately from Beaucaire plantation?"

"I heard dey done brought de body of de doctah home, sah—he died mighty sudden, sunder up de ribber. Thut's 'bout all I know."

"When was this?"

"'Bout a week, maybe mo'n dat, ago. De Warrior brought de body home, sah."

"The Warrior? Did anyone go ashore with it?"

"Pears like thar was two men stopped off at de Landing. I disremember de names, but one ob 'em was in ol' friend ob de jerges."

I turned my head away silently, but only for a moment. The two men were in all probability Kirby and his satellite, Carver. Doubtless the Beaucaire property was already legally in Kirby's possession, and any possible chance I might have once had to foil him in his nefarious purpose had now completely vanished.

To be sure I had reasoned out no definite means whereby I could circumvent his theft, except to take legal advice, confer with Governor Clark, and warn those threatened girls of their danger. But now it was too late even to do this. And yet it might not be. If Kirby and his confederate believed that I was dead, were convinced that I had perished beneath the waters of the river, they might feel safe in taking time to strengthen their position; might delay final action, hoping thus to make their case seem more plausible. If Kirby was really serious in his intention of marrying Beaucaire's daughter he would naturally hesitate immediately to acknowledge winning the property at cards, and thus indirectly being the cause of her father's death. He would be quite likely to keep this hidden from the girl for a while, until he tried his luck at law—if love failed, then the disclosure might be made to drive the young woman to him—a threat to render her complainant.

"Do you know a lawyer named Haines?"

"Livin' down at de Landing? Yea, sah."

I lifted myself up in bed, too deeply interested to lie still any longer.

"Now listen, Pete," I explained earnestly. "I've got sufficient money to pay you well for all you do, and just as soon as you get me something to eat I want you to go down to the Landing and bring Lawyer Haines back here with you. Just tell him a sick white man wants to see him at once, and not a word to anyone else."

"Yea, sah," the white of his eyes rolling. "He done know of Pete, an' I'll sure bring him back yere."

It was dark when they came, the fire alone lighting up the interior of the dingy cabin with a fatal glow of red flame. I had managed to get out of bed and partially dress myself, feeling stronger, and in less pain as I exercised my muscles. Haines was a small, sandy-complexioned man, with a straggling beard and light blue eyes. He appeared competent enough, a bundle of nervous energy, and yet there was something about the fellow which instantly impressed me unfavorably—probably his short, jerky manner of speech and his inability to look straight at you.

"Pete has been telling me who you are, Lieutenant," he said, as we shook hands, "and putting some other things together I can guess the rest. You came south on the Warrior?"

"From Fort Armstrong—yes; who told you this?"

"Captain Throckmorton. I know him in St. Louis, and he seemed deeply grieved by your sudden disappearance. No one on board was able to explain what had occurred."

"Yet there were two men on the boat who could have explained if they had cared to do so," I answered dryly. "I mean Kirby and Carver; they were the ones who threw me overboard."

He dropped into a chair, his keen ferret eyes on my face.

"Kirby and Carver? They went ashore with the judge's body at the Landing. So there is a story back of all this," he exclaimed jerkily. "D—n it, I thought as much. Was Beaucaire killed?"

"No—not at least by any violence. No doubt the shock of his loss hastened his death. Surely you must know that he risked all he possessed on a game of cards and lost?"

"Throckmorton knew something about it, and there were other rumors floating about the Landing, but I have heard no details."

"I have every reason, Haines, to feel convinced that both Kirby and Carver tampered Beaucaire up the river with the intention of plucking him. Kirby practically confessed this to me, boasting afterward. That last night he so manipulated the cards—or rather so manipulated the cards—as to deceive Beaucaire into firmly believing that he held an absolutely unobtainable hand—he was dealt four aces and a king."

"The lawyer leaned forward, breathing heavily."

"Four aces! Only one hand is better than that, and it would be impossible to get such a hand out of one pack."

"That is exactly true, Haines. I am no card player, but I do know that much about the game. Yet Kirby took the pot with a straight flush. Now, either he or Carver slipped an extra ace into the pack, or else Beaucaire did. In my opinion the judge had no chance to work such a trick. And that's the case as it stands."

Haines jumped to his feet and began pacing the dirt floor excitedly, his hands clasped behind his back.

"By heaven, man!" he cried, pausing suddenly. "Even if he did have a chance the judge never did it—never. He was a good sport, and always played a straight game. You say he bet everything he had?"

"To the last dollar—Kirby exacted him on. Besides the money a deed to his land and a bill of sale for his negroes were on the table."

"The field hands, you mean?"

"Yea, and the house servants. Kirby insisted that he write these words. This includes every chattel slave legally belonging to me," and made Beaucaire sign it in that form."

Haines' face was white, his eyes staring at me incredulously.

"God help us, man! Do you know what that means?" he gasped.

"I am almost afraid I do," I answered, yet thrilled by his manner. "That was why I sent for you. Would that include his son's daughter?"

He buried his face in his hands.

"Yea," he confessed brokenly. "To the best of my knowledge Rene Beaucaire is a slave."

The silence following this blunt statement was sickening. Up to that moment, in spite of every fact brought to my knowledge, I had secretly believed this condition of affairs impossible. Surely somewhere, through some legal form, Judge Beaucaire had guarded the future safety of

"By Heaven, Man!" He cried, pausing suddenly.

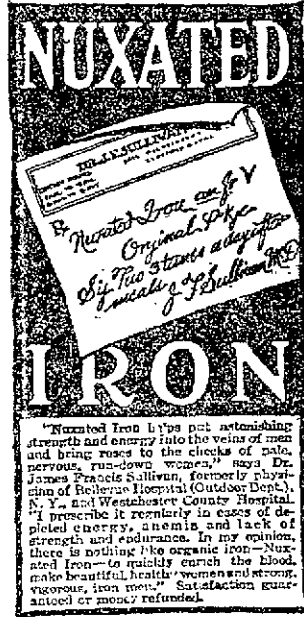

this young woman, whom he had admitted into his household. Any other conception seemed impossible, too monstrous, too preposterous for consideration. But now the solemn words of the lawyer, his own legal counselor, brought conviction, and for the moment all power of speech deserted me. It was actually true, then—the girl was a slave, a thing belonging to Kirby. Nothing broke the stillness within the cabin except the sharp crackling of flames in the open fireplace, and the heavy breathing of the negro. He was seated on the edge of the bed, his black face showing a greenish tint and revealing unguessed amazement, with wide-opened eyes staring blankly at Haines, who stood motionless before the fire.

"What was dat yer seed, Mister Haines?" he asked thickly. "You say as how Missus Rene Beaucaire is a slave, sah? 'Pears like I don't just rightly understand."

"Still, that is true, Pete," and the lawyer lifted his head and surveyed us both. "She is the illegitimate daughter of Della, Judge Beaucaire's housekeeper; her father was Adelbert Beaucaire, the judge's only son. No one knows where he is, dead or alive."

"De good Lord! An' de ol' judge never set her free?"

TO BE CONTINUED.

RANDOLPH BLANKS LEMONT WITHOUT A HIT; STRIKES OUT 14

Crack Y. M. C. A. Pitcher Has Now Twisted 51 Innings Without Lie.

Randolph, Dickerson Run Y. M. C. A.'s big time twirler, shut out Lemont without a hit or a run at Lemont last night, and the Y. M. C. A. won, 14-0. It was Randolph's 51st inning without a hit, a record probably unequalled in the region of baseball circles. The twirler came into the game in the fourth, took in the seventh, the eighth and two in the ninth, and pitched the last out in the ninth. He pitched 51 innings, shut out Lemont, and pitched 51 innings. He is of sure-fire big league caliber. He is 19 years of age, stands about six feet and weighs 190 pounds. The Y. M. C. ## MILLINERS GET THEIR INSPIRATION FROM THE ART OF BYGONE YEARS

Wright-Metzler Fall Showing, Now on, Indicates No Single Style Will Rule.

From stately portraits of years bygone, artists of a modern fashion have evolved the newest modes, for not only is the tri-corne as popular as ever but the sweeping plumes of the Navarres and Stuarts, the rich copper and dark rose colors of the old Dutch painters and the delicate, old-fashioned flowers like those on Dresden china, all indicate that milliners and modistes have taken their inspiration for the season from the art of the past.

At least such is indicated by the pattern hats on display at Wright-Metzler's, where an early, informal showing of 1919 millinery brought out a host of women almost as much interested in learning the trend of the styles as in securing themselves a new hat.

Autumn leaves and flowers against a background like twilight artists create the proper atmosphere for such a display and here are found such an array of hats in every contour and color and such a display of trimmings in both feathers and flowers as have seldom been shown even at the more formal openings of the later fall.

Were it not for the unusual beauty of the flowers and accompanying foliage, it would seem that fine feathers were the vogue and, were it not for the plumes, the blonde, the burnt rose, the huckle, the vulture and the unicorn ed ostrich which sometimes hide, but more frequently simply adorn the hats, it would seem that the gorgeously colored flowers were all the rage. As it is, there is something for each individual taste in form, color and trimming, there being the chin, poke, helmet, tri-corne and sailor hats in capricious, the new maccaroni tapers, old copper, deep rose and French blue, and trimmed with touches of leather or plumes or a single bud or a wealth of flowers. Even the sautiers are out in fantastic shapes, as often as they are plain trimmed.

Along with there is every indication that no single style will rule the hats this year. There is a more decisive influence found in the colors where brown, especially heaver brown, is contesting with blue, especially French blue, for supremacy. As usual, black is very good and there are many hats in velvet, beaver, hatter's plush and feathers found in it.

Velvet Always Hits a 3 Bagger: Sight! Smell!! Taste!!!

THEN it's easy to get to the home-plate, right where you snuggle down in an old coat and slippers to enjoy life.

To begin with, Velvet Tobacco, in its jolly red tin, has a wholesome generous look to it. Nothing namby-pamby about it. A red-blooded tin full of red-blooded tobacco, for red-blooded folks.

Open it up—and you get the fragrance that Nature stored in the tobacco during eight changing seasons, while it mellowed in great wooden hogsheds.

And say! It's great! That good, natural fragrance of Kentucky's wonder tobacco—Burley—King of Pipe-land. No camouflage about it. No doling up.

Pack a pipeload. Light up and you'll get the fragrance of real tobacco—the incense to solid comfort.

And a mild, pleasant taste, that only our Nature-ageing method can impart. You will never taste a finer cigarette than the one you roll with Velvet.

Fifteen cents a tin—not a cent more.

Batter up!

“Inner Workings of the Japanese Mind”

“What manner of folk are the Japanese?”
“What sort of gods do they worship?”
“What kind of laws do they have?”
“These are a few of the questions the western world is asking in view of the universal interest aroused in Japan’s controversy with China about Shantung concession,” says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society.

By way of reply the bulletin quotes from a communication to the society by Baron Kenjiro Kaneko, written before the world war gave rise to these controversial questions, as follows:

“The Japanese have a peculiar character. When they come in contact with a foreign civilization they always go through three stages of evolution. First, they pass through the stage of imitation. At this period they imitate everything that comes from a foreign source, and I might say that they blindly copy. But after 50 or 60 years of imitation they arrive at the stage of adaptation; then at last they reach the stage of origination. These three stages are clearly shown by our history, if we only examine into the inner workings of the Japanese mind.

“About 1,500 years ago, when we introduced the Chinese civilization into our country, we copied everything after Chinese fashion. At that time we had no national alphabet. There were some sorts of signs to express ideas in writing, and even these signs differed in different parts of the country. The Chinese had a highly developed type of hieroglyphics to express their ideas; therefore at one time the Chinese hieroglyphics took such a hold on the mind of the Japanese that we adopted them as our national language.

“This period might be called the era of imitation. Fortunately there came a scholar—the most famous scholar we ever had—by the name of Maehi, who returned from China in 552 A. D. He was in China many years for his education at Chinese schools. When he came back he saw what was most needed in his native country, and he invented out of the Chinese hieroglyphics the 47 characters of our alphabet, founded upon the principle of phonetic language. As you know, the Japanese language is phonetic, whereas the Chinese is hieroglyphic.

“We have passed through three stages in our religion just as much as in our literature.

“Buddhism was first introduced into Japan through Korea in the year 552 A. D. At first Buddhism was embraced by the higher classes, particularly among scholarly circles, but the lower classes or common people still clung to their faith of Shintoism. Those who believed in Buddhism were so far as to copy the ceremonies and rituals. The doctrine of Buddhism was written in the Chinese language, and the believers offered their prayers in that tongue.

“At one time Buddhism made such a stride as to become almost a state religion, but the common people still opposed it, with a determination to uphold their own Shintoism. Consequently a most terrible struggle began between the two religions—Buddhism in the hands of the upper classes and Shintoism in the hands of the common people. Such a contest as this blocked every step in Japan’s progress but finally the statesmen and priests began to understand that they no longer could force upon the people a blind imitation of Buddhism, and they changed their policy and tried to find out some means to meet the requirements of the times. Here again we reach the stage of adaptation.

“They invented an ingenious theory of explaining and interpreting the religious principle of Buddhism. They adapted the theory of Monotheism as well as Polytheism by saying that there is only one Supreme Power, which is personified in the form of various gods and goddesses according to the different countries and institutions. Thus they reconciled the principle of the one Supreme Power in Buddhism with the Polytheistic theory of Shintoism.

“In order to convince the popular mind with this theory Emperor Shennu patronized a movement to erect a large bronze statue of Daibutsu or Buddha at Nara, and this statue was erected in 752 A. D. after 14 years in casting and construction.”

At the Theatres

THE PARAMOUNT

“A PETAL ON THE CURRENT”—Starring Mary MacLaren, the delightful star, is being presented today. Undoubtedly, Miss MacLaren shows gratifying progress in each succeeding picture. In her latest production she has reached heights not hitherto attained, although such a statement detracts not one whit from her admirable work in such previous successes as “Shoes,” “Vanity Pool” and “The Weaker Vessel.” There have been those who declare that Fannie Hurst must have written her famous story with Mary MacLaren in her mind as the embodiment of Stella Schung. Although this is probably not the case, the fact remains that Miss MacLaren is splendidly suited to the role. The story itself concerns an ingenious young girl, whose mother despaired of her marrying because of her inability to mingle with the other sex. At length, to please her mother and her girl friends, she attends a party and by a chain of haphazard circumstances in which she is entirely innocent, brings dishonor upon herself. She is a veritable petal on the current of worldly intolerance. How she is reclaimed is the climax of Miss Hurst’s entrancing story. Tod Browning, the director, succeeded in creating a genuine Hurst atmosphere throughout the production. Robert Anderson plays the male lead, and in the cast the well known figures of Frazee Rigney, Gertrude Claire, Beatrice Burnham and Victor Potel appear. Tomorrow Arthur Ashley will be featured in “The Prude Agent.”

THE NOINSON.

“HELP, HELP POLICE!”—A big Fox production starring George Walsh is today’s feature attraction. The play, and the story, it is said, deals with safety razors, the police and a love affair. It is denied that the safety razors are introduced to give George a chance to cut up—the police provide that opportunity. However, it is obvious that if it hadn’t been for the razors George would not have gotten into so many scrapes. George, it seems, falls in love with the daughters of his dad’s principal business rival. Both fathers consider this a stroke against the grain and one of them is rather inclined to assist the police in ticketing George “over the road.” To this cause a keen-edged sharper contributes an abundance of circumstantial evidence and George is afforded a great opportunity

New Fall Fashions

In street frocks and afternoon gowns and tailored and semi-tailored suits are arriving in bewildering array—bewildering, because the styles are so decidedly different from last season and, yet without any decisive trend—Only the best of the early models are here, but we want you to see them now.

Most Beautiful

is one dress of Tricotine and the new Granite Crepe in the most desirable of the navy blues. Beads are the only garniture, but the charm of the gown lies in the grace of the draperies of crepe which give the new silhouette effect of rounding curves, the very newest mode. This gown is $125.00.

Others in Georgette, Tricotette, Meteor Satin, Sylvanette, Pollette, Crepe de Chine and Serge are found in many of the new colors, for every dress demand and priced to suit every purse, the newest models ranging from $19.75 to $100.

Cooler Weather Calls for Warmer Frocks

Lovely, Irresistible,

is a suit of Seal Brown Fortuna Cloth with a soft, warm beaver collar giving the final touch of richness and quality. Straight panels in panther effect give the new silhouette and strike a note of real femininity in contrast to the straight lines of recent years. The price is $250.00.

Other suits in Velour de Laine, Duvetone, Silver-tone, Tinseltone, Tinseltwill, Tricotine, Poplin and Serge are found in styles and colors suited to whatever needs there are. Some are trimmed in Beaver, Hudson Seal and Squirrel and prices range from $29.75 to $175.

The Shawlette

having a collar of contrasting color, pockets and a wide belt, is both snug-fitting and convenient, especially for wear under the loose coats of early fall, where its bright colors give a pretty vest effect. It is really warm enough for present wear. The price is
